my fall bucket list.

a little romance. a little getting out of the house. some reading, obviously.

no pressure to finish everything. pick the fall you actually want to have.

for the reader

the tbr was never getting shorter.

- ☐ read a book in a café while drinking hot chocolate
- ☐ read a dark academia romance
- ☐ read a vampire romance
- ☐ reread one of my favorite fall books
- ☐ start a book without reading the synopsis
- ☐ have an entire phone-free reading night
- ☐ buy one unnecessarily beautiful physical book
- ☐ create a "books that consumed me this fall" list for the kitchen something warm. something homemade.

- ☐ bake an apple crisp
- ☐ make homemade cinnamon rolls
- ☐ make caramel apples
- ☐ make chicken teriyaki and have a cozy night in
- ☐ make a fall cocktail or mocktail
- ☐ make grilled cheese and tomato soup
- ☐ make hot apple cider for getting out the leaves are a perfectly good reason.

- ☐ go apple picking
- ☐ visit a pumpkin patch
- ☐ go for a walk somewhere covered in leaves
- ☐ visit a farmers market
- ☐ visit an old library
- ☐ explore a historic neighborhood on a gloomy day
- ☐ see live music somewhere small and moody
- ☐ have dinner somewhere dark and candlelit for little fall dates with someone. or just with myself.

- ☐ thrift an oversized sweater
- ☐ buy a new fall candle
- ☐ go on a bookstore date
- ☐ browse a used bookstore and leave with one surprise book
- ☐ buy a bundle of seasonal flowers
- ☐ take photos in a vintage bookstore
- ☐ go to the movies alone
- ☐ spend a morning in a café

drink the coffee. buy the flowers. take your book somewhere pretty.

my fall bucket list.

a little more of the fall i want.

for staying in some plans should involve cancelling plans.

- [ ] rewatch the vampire diaries
- [ ] spend a rainy day reading in bed
- [ ] create a fall reading playlist
- [ ] watch twilight on the first truly rainy day
- [ ] watch a classic halloween movie
- [ ] decorate the reading nook for fall
- [ ] create a fall floral bouquet for myself
- [ ] have a rainy sunday with no plans
- [ ] make a fall scrapbook page with photos, leaves, and book quotes the wildcard fall in love with a book i didn't expect to love.

a few things i want to make happen...

drink the coffee. buy the flowers. take your book somewhere pretty.